Present Continuous Tense: Chalito Short Form

Il tempo presente continuo: forma breve in Chalito

It may be that in your own language this tense does not exist or that it is not used in the same way as in Bengali.

Può essere che nella tua lingua questo tempo non esista o che non sia usato allo stesso modo come in Bengali.

This tense expresses the idea of:-

I am going ("I am in the process of going")

He is singing

She is still laughing, etc.

Questo tempo esprime l'idea di:-

Sto andando ("sto in processo di andare").

Lui sta cantando

Lei sta ridendo ancora, ecc.

The Chalito form of this tense sounds like a shortening of the Sadhu form with “-ইতে” “-ite” omitted. The Sadhu form of this was shown in Study 28.

La forma Chalito di questo tempo suona come un accorciamento della forma di Sadhu ma con “-ইতে” “-ite” omesso.

The Present Continuous tense in Chalito Style is constructed by combining the stem of a verb with the ending of the present tense of the verb “হওয়া” “haoyaa” “to be” (am, is, are). The plural forms are the same as the singular. The following table shows conjugation of the Present Continuous using the example of “দেখ-” “dekh-”. This is the stem of “দেখা” “dekhaa” “to see”.

La forma del tempo presente continuo nello stile bengali di Chalito è costruita combinando la radice di un verbo e la desinenza del presente del verbo “হওয়া” “haoyaa” “stare” (sto, stai, sta, stiamo, state, stanno).

Le forme plurali sono le stesse del singolare. La seguente tabella mostra la declinazione del tempo presente continuo e utilizza l'esempio di “দেখ-” “dekh-”. Questo è la radice di “দেখা” “dekhaa” “vedere”.

In Chalito Style if the stem of the Present Continuous ends in a vowel (other than the inherent vowel “অ” “a”), then the final syllable commencing in “ঁ...” “ch...” is hardened to “ঁঁ...” “cch...”.

In Stile Chalito se la radice del Presente continuo termina in una vocale (diversa dalla vocale inerente “অ” “a”), allora la sillaba finale che comincia in “ঁ...” “ch...” è resa più dura “ঁঁ...” “cch...”.

The following table shows this tense using the example of “দেখা-” “dekhaa-”. This is the stem of “দেখানো” “dekhaano” “to show”.

La seguente tabella mostra questo tempo usando l'esempio di “দেখা-” “dekhaa-”. Questo è la radice di “দেখানো” “dekhaano” “mostrare”.
